

Biography

Dr. Safiya McCarter is a naturopathic physician and licensed acupuncturist currently practicing in the state of Maryland. She completed both her Doctorate in Naturopathic Medicine and her Master's in Acupuncture and East Asian Medicine at Bastyr University in Kenmore, WA. She completed her undergraduate degrees in Biology and Mathematics at Clark Atlanta University in Atlanta, GA.

Safiya McCarter, ND

Prior to relocating to Maryland to practice full-time, Dr. McCarter served as adjunct faculty in multiple departments and as Co-Director of the Daniel K. Church Center for Social Justice and Diversity at Bastyr University. In her role as an administrator and educator she was involved in curriculum design, development and implementation, accreditation standards review and the development and delivery of workshops and trainings. Dr. McCarter is also a skilled facilitator and sought-after consultant on topics regarding diversity, equity, and inclusion. She has had the pleasure of presenting on these topics as a featured panelist and conference presenter and has provided consulting and facilitation services in various non-profit settings.

Dr. McCarter's clinical interests include pediatrics and women's health. Committed to increasing access to Naturopathic medicine, she has provided care to women in a transitional housing program for formerly homeless women. Her clinical approach incorporates psychological and emotional health and forming a partnership with her patients to assist them in the attainment of their health goals.

Dr. McCarter currently serves on the boards of the American Association of Naturopathic Physicians (AANP), the Midwifery Education Accreditation Council (MEAC) and the Academic Collaborative for Integrative Health (ACIH).