Biography

Dr. Kristaps Paddock was born in Lincoln, Massachusetts, a small town of organic farms and wooded trails. He decided to study naturopathic medicine after learning about ND school from a college friend's father, who had just graduated from what was then called NCNM.

Kristaps Paddock, ND

After graduating from Bastyr University in 2010, he practiced in Oakland and Washington, DC before settling in Baltimore, Maryland. He was very involved in the Maryland licensure process, and became president of the Maryland Naturopathic Doctors Association immediately after the licensure bill was passed. He helped the profession navigate a difficult rules and regulations process, and is now engaged in an ongoing process of expanding scope to include prescription substances.
