

Dear doctors and patients concerned about the FDA's attempt to restrict access to compounded drugs commonly used in integrative and naturopathic medicine:

Your donations have been helping us challenge the FDA's actions, but now we need your help by way of feedback! Please respond by Wednesday, February 21, Close of Business.

The FDA's Pharmacy Compounding Advisory Committee (PCAC) is asking for additional information to defend why these following ingredients should be reviewed and included in the 503A bulk drug substances list:

- Methycobalamin
- Quercitin
- Reduced L-Glutathione
- Alpha Lipoic Acid
- Choline Chloride

We have a deadline of February 23rd to provide, "...any additional information that FDA should consider in its evaluation that may help to clarify the role of these nominated bulk substances in compound drug products in current clinical practice..."

We are again requesting your assistance to ensure compounded preparations using these substances remain available for your patients. Share with us any of the following:

- Personal anecdotal experiences you may have using these substances in your practice. Please include as much as you can about common dosing, frequency, indications, and outcomes.
- Your patients' experiences with the use of these specific substances—let your patients know their access to this important compounded drug is in jeopardy!
- Scientific literature supporting uses of these substance.
- Statements or guidelines from professional medical societies regarding uses.

Be aware that your response or your patient's may be referenced in our statements to FDA's PCAC.

The FDA's PCAC must be persuaded of the medical therapeutic value of these substances.

How to share your feedback:

- Please respond TODAY with your own experiences by emailing laura.farr@naturopathic.org
- Carbon copy (Cc) pharmacyanswers@mcguff.com
- Include the subject heading "PCAC Review Information"
