NEWS FROM THE OFFICE

Member in the Spotlight: Sherri Jacobs, ND, CNS

Dr. Sherri Jacobs is a Certified Nutrition Specialist through the American College of Nutrition. She earned her Naturopathic Medical Degree from Bastyr University in Seattle, WA. Dr. Jacobs has completed clinical rotations in various outreach clinics in the Seattle area as well as preceptoring with some of the world’s leading Naturopathic Physicians. Her practice is centered around clinical nutrition, offering individualized wellness plans and nutrition based labs. She has received additional training in the areas of detoxification, woman’s health, and the natural management of Mood Disorders. She is Vice President of the South Carolina Association of Naturopathic Physicians and a member of the American College of Nutrition. She was recently featured in an article published in the magazine, For Women First, for her ability to bring patients to a point where they can say, "I’d forgotten I could feel this good!" Congratulations Dr. Sherri Jacobs!
Riding the Trail that's been Blazed
Written by Tabatha Parker, ND, AANP Global Health Committee Chair

Within every profession, development is constantly happening. The naturopathic profession, because of its emergence, has unique opportunities in regards to that development. The growth of naturopathic medicine globally has been unprecedented in the last 10 years and our ability to be leaders in that world will depend on our ability to address certain strengths and weaknesses we collectively have, improve those weaknesses, and develop the strengths. SPREADING AWARENESS
Naturopathic Medicine and Autoimmune Disease
Written by Amy Rothenberg, ND, AANP Board Member

The New York Times Magazine published a compelling piece, "The Boy With a Thorn in His Joints" by Susannah Meadows, written by a mother of little boy who had been diagnosed with juvenile idiopathic arthritis (JIA). After pursuing appropriate diagnostic workups and trying the conventional medical approaches to no avail, Ms. Meadows and her family decided to pursue less conventional approaches, including looking at diet, natural supplements and botanical medicines. Their story has a guardedly happy ending, the boy remains mostly symptom-free past the one-year mark. His only setbacks occurred after taking antibiotics and after eating gluten. Juvenile idiopathic arthritis does sometimes spontaneously remit, though less commonly when many joints are involved, as in his case. Meadows makes a compelling case for at least looking into some less conventional approaches. Read Naturopathic Medicine and Autoimmune Disease.

Opportunity to Help Shape Integrative Medicine in Preventive Medicine Residencies

Naturopathic Doctors are needed to become part of the Integrative Medicine in Preventive Medicine Education Community of Learning. Those of you who become involved will gain new colleagues on the front edge of defining and implementing the integrative medicine-preventive medicine connection in biomedicine. You will also be helping shift the preventive medicine specialty toward more openness to naturopathic medicine and to integrative healthcare values, professions and practices. Read full announcement.
Visit the AANP Events Calendar for a full listing of what is happening in the naturopathic community.
